

Ethics in research and practice: an example of health and well-being

Presentation by Katerina Kassavou

Abstract:

The political debate about private vs public health care system is reflecting upon the principles that underlie research and practice of relevant professions. Along with the health care insurance companies to battle on the criteria to apply to poorer in health. During this talk I will present some example of national and international health care systems and argue on the effects of health care policies on specific social groups. I will complete this talk with a question on whether and how the health care system becomes a political question.